Santa's Test Run on a one-horse open sleigh

By Serena Lapointe

For twelve years, a local family has shared their love of Christmas and horses with folks across the area. The Myers Family, comprised of Donald and his wife, Lavonne, and their two grown daughters, Melanie and Reena, have been running an event they call Santa's Test Run since 2013.

That year, Don had pulled out his buggy and took family and friends out for a ride. "We had just gotten the horse trained to pull it," he said. Then they had an idea. What if he dressed up as Santa on Christmas Eve, went to the service road where Lonira Road meets Highway 43 and waved at passing vehicles? The decision ended up being a good one.

Reena, who lives in Grande Prairie, was visiting for the holidays when they decided to do it. She and her sister, on horseback, joined her dad on the buggy, and the trio made their way to the highway. "It was priceless watching all the people do a double take to ensure they saw it correctly," she explained. "It was Christmas Eve, so we waved to everyone travelling that day.

We had a couple of people stop and ask if they could take pictures. We thought it would be fun to give people a little joy during this time of year."

The following year, the group decided to do it again, but they decided to give people the chance to go for a little ride in the buggy this time. Rather than take any money, the Myers crew fundraised for local organizations like the Whitecourt Food Bank and the Christmas Hamper.

"Our first year doing the actual Test Run, we collected some stuff for the food bank and some cash, which we donated to the Christmas Hamper. The following years greatly increased in people attending and donating. We had people asking on Facebook what date it would be happening," said Don.

"We like the response from people, which made us decide to continue it every year. Even during Covid, we had a great response from the public. Even though we had to put some strict protocols in place," explained Don.

When asked why he wanted to raise money and goods for local groups, Don said it was all in how he was raised. "I was taught by my parents to be kind and helpful to people less fortunate than us. I feel it's important to recognize all people regardless of their status. We have always been fortunate to have most things we wanted in life. I have witnessed some dear friends growing up who were less fortunate than us, and our family always helped them."

Getting to play the jolly fellow is something that Don looks forward to every year. "It is a great feeling. I enjoy the looks of the children. I even had one older lady who had never had a buggy ride, and she was so excited to have one. That's the feeling I get when someone enjoys what I'm doing. I think I enjoy it as much as the kids do!"

Melanie said watching her dad dress up as Santa is as much a tradition for her as it is for others. She even regularly dresses up as Mrs. Claus. "It is so fun as he loves all the children and the looks of joy they have for Santa. It makes me feel warm inside knowing it makes their day and is a tradition for them." She added that celebrating the season in a big way also keeps the memory of passed family members at the forefront. "This is something our family before would have loved to do as they all loved this time of year."

Several years in, Melanie, her mom and sister, and a neighbour started putting together little ornament crafts and gave them out. "Some people have been coming for a while now and look forward to the ornament. They collect them. I love seeing the happiness in all the children that

Not just anyone can dress up as Santa and bring the season's magic to life. It takes a special person with a sparkle in their eyes to do the role justice. For the last twelve years, an area man has been one of a few long-standing Santa stand-ins locally that has done the job right. Pictured is Year one, down on the service road by Lonira Rd, waving at Hwy 43 drivers on Christmas Eve.

come through and their parents."

For Reena, coming down for the yearly tradition is a given for her. "I like being part of it so that I can see the joy on the faces of everyone who gets to go on the ride. One of my favourite parts is seeing how much fun my dad has with it. It also helps bring my grandfathers, who would have had so much fun with it, back into our hearts," she explained.

In the last few years, the group moved Santa's Test Run to the Blue Ridge Community Centre.

"We teamed up with the Blue Ridge Community League and Library to coordinate with their Christmas party. It gives people something to do while waiting for the ride, like skating and crafts. They also supply hotdogs and hot chocolate by the fire pit," explained Don.

The event normally happens early in December but was sidelined this year due to a big dip in the thermostat. It was the first year that the Myers family was unable to do Santa's Test Run in the way they had been. "Our family is disappointed that we can't have the event this year. It's the first time we haven't done it since we started. There was one year we had to cancel our original date, but we made an alternative date work. Unfortunately, this year, we can't do that."

Don, Lavonne, Melanie and Reena will miss seeing all the faces and sharing in the Christmas joy they have grown accustomed to. Don said they are all eager to get back to it next year. "Our family would like to thank all past, present and future Santa's Test Run helpers who have helped us keep this family tradition alive for so many years with such a great response. Merry Christmas to all!"

Back in business: Alberta tourism roars back to life

By Mark Parsons, ATB ECONOMICS

Can you think of an industry more impacted by the pandemic than tourism? International travel came to a virtual halt, depriving the industry of revenues.

Given the severity of the disruptions, it's hard to imagine that tourism spending could ever recover. But that's exactly what has happened.

Recently released data show that foreign* visitor spending in Alberta hit a record high in the first half of 2024 at $1.2 billion. That's 6.6% higher than the same time last year, with spending up across all categories.

It was overseas visitors that contributed the most in the first half, spending $621 million—up 13.7% from the first half of 2023. Spending by Americans accounted for $592 million, on par with the same time last year.

Taking a longer view, foreign visitor spending in Alberta was 36% higher than the first half of 2019—prior to the pandemic. That's the largest increase among the provinces and far outpacing the national 9% increase.

Foreign tourist spending provides a significant boost to the province, as it is 'incremental' or new money coming in. But it is just one component of tourism spending. The other larger categories are spending by other Canadians and Albertans themselves. These categories are available on an annual basis and were recently discussed in the November 22 edition of the Seven.

Tourism is part of the growth-broadening story we've been talking about. Oil production and home construction are driving growth this year, but a wide range of sectors are also chipping in, from food manufacturing, to technology, to aviation, and of course tourism. A weak loonie, relative to the greenback, is also making travel more affordable for U.S. visitors and will continue to encourage visits to the province.

The trend in spending is positive, but there are still some challenges for tourism operators. One is labour shortages, with accommodation and food services having the highest job vacancy rate among major sectors as of the second quarter. Another is rising costs, including the spike in food costs since the pandemic. More recently, wildfires have taken a staggering toll on Jasper, destroying about a third of the town during peak travel season. National Park attendance in Alberta was down more than 35% in August compared to the same month last year, with Jasper Park falling to zero that month. While visitors are returning, we'll likely see the impact in the third quarter spending data.

It's also worth noting that the COVID bounce back in foreign travel spending is driven by higher spending per visit, not more visits overall. Indeed, foreign visits in the first half of this year trailed 2019 first half levels by nearly 3%. While U.S. travel has fully recovered, overseas visits have not. Yet spending per overseas visit has jumped, providing an offset. This is important, as a full recovery in non-U.S. travel provides a runway for even more growth in the sector.

Bottom line: The tourism sector has bounced back from COVID in a meaningful way, and is an important part of the growth and diversification story in Alberta.

*Non-resident visitors to Canada.

Putting a face on suicide

Austin Gage Schoonover

Age - 14

Every 40 seconds somewhere around the world someone dies by suicide, that's 99 people every 66 minutes. Every day, that's almost 100 people in the United States alone, and over 2160 worldwide. Putting a Face on Suicide (PAFOS) is a suicide awareness project that creates posters and videos to pay tribute to those we have lost to suicide with dignity and respect. PAFOS humanizes the daunting statistics; lovingly replacing numbers with faces.

Swan Hills RCMP respond to house explosion

On December 2, at approximately 3:55 a.m., Swan Hills RCMP and emergency services attended a residence, located on Pan Am Street, for an explosion. Preliminary information suggested that the cause was likely a gas leak. The residence did not have any occupants. Multiple homes and vehicles in the surround area sustained damages. At this time there are no reported injuries.

Awaiting a special guest

How the Community Lunch Box feeds the community's kids

Lunch Box volunteer Shawna Binkley helping drop off food to Hilltop.

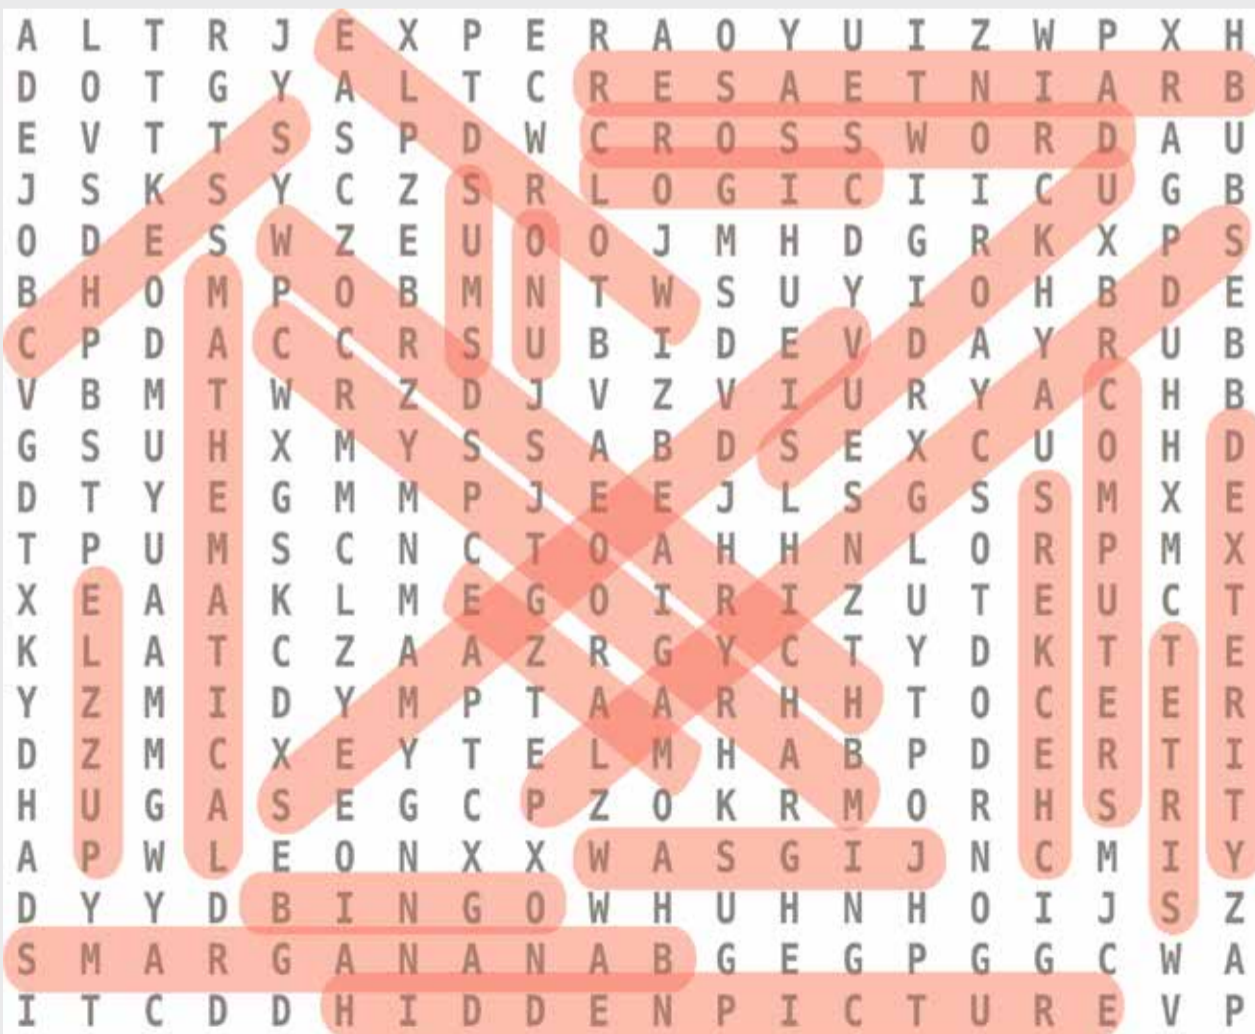

Some of the weekly food prepared at IGA.

The Community Lunch Box Society recently showed what a typical week of food delivery looks like for the non-profit. On Monday and Wednesday last week, a Lunch Box crew picked up food items for local stores and delivered them to seven schools, and several program providers, including the Whitecourt and District Public Library and the BGC (Boys and Girls Club). Kids definitely learn better on a full stomach.
