Fifty-two years of creating 'Christmas in a box' for local families in need

Donations continue to roll in for the Whitecourt Christmas Hamper, thanks to the generosity and love of community members who want to help make the holidays brighter for those in need. Only two application days are left, and they happen later this week. All in Bloom joined the fun by donating toys and AJMC gift cards. See story page 2.

Fifty-two years of creating ‘Christmas in a box’ for local families in need

By Serena Lapointe

This year marks 52 years for the Whitecourt Christmas Hamper. This volunteer-driven and community-supported organization brings the joy and spirit of the holidays to everyone, whether they receive a hamper or donate towards one. No matter what one’s connection is to the hamper, it’s impossible to be left untouched by the magic of Christmas.

Christmas Hamper chair, Kim Tschigerl, has been volunteering with the organization for over a decade and continues to return year after year, just as other volunteers do. She said watching the process take shape, from collecting donations to wrapping the gifts, creating the hampers, and delivering them to families, is inspiring.

“When you see how much the community donates and gives of their time, it is phenomenal. Our elves are busily working in the background. These volunteers come and support this program to give back to their community. It is so inspiring to see all the donations come together in one place and then get wrapped and sent out to each one of the families. Words cannot express the inspiration from seeing it all come together.”

Through November and part of December, ambassador businesses place boxes in their buildings and collect donations from the community. There are five ambassador locations (REMAX, AJMC, White Wall Wood, Scotia Bank and the Woodlands County office). “We appreciate our ambassadors who keep track of those bins for us and let us know when they are full so we can have volunteers pick them up. We could not do it without them,” said Tschigerl.

“The business challenge down at RE-

MAX is bringing in a lot. Their front foyer is already filling up quickly. That challenge has inspired businesses to come together and bring in toys for the children of Whitecourt. It’s phenomenal to see. Our hearts are filled with joy when we see all of them coming together and donating to the community. It stays in the community. It’s just awesome,” she added.

Families in need, with children at home, can apply in person to the Whitecourt Christmas Hamper and receive what they need to bring the holidays home. Not only do hampers include gifts for each family member, but they also include gift cards, enabling families to purchase what they need for Christmas dinner. “It’s a wide gamut of items coming together for them. It’s not just toys. It’s so much more than that,”

Whitecourt Town Council updates

Congratulations Whitecourt! Whitecourt won top marks with five blooms in the 2024 Provincial Communities in Bloom Competition. The evaluation form provided to the Whitecourt Communities in Bloom Committee contained praise for a number of projects and programs, including the River Spur Project and Whitecourt’s FireSmart Program, as well as the park spaces and outdoor recreational activities available at Festival Park. White-court has participated in the Communities in Bloom program for almost 20 years, both provincially and nationally. For more information on the Committee and how you can participate, visit our website at www.whitecourt.ca/play/communities-in-bloom.

Whitecourt will be applying to the Local Growth and Sustainability Grant for the purchase of a Pumper Truck.

Silvacom Ltd. has been awarded the Community Fireguard

Program Project Manager contract. The Town of Whitecourt, with support from Alberta Forestry and Parks, has been approved for funding from the Forest Resource Improvement Association of Alberta Community Fireguard Program. The $1,534,180 in funding will be used to construct a community fireguard with access points, approximately 4.5 kilometres long and 100 metres wide, on the eastern boundary of town.

The Whitecourt Fire Department will be hosting a Fire Chief Change of Command Ceremony at 7:30pm on December 17 at the Fire Hall.

Christmas is for kids

All loaded up and ready to go.

Heavy snow made the trip through the downtown extra festive.

Off they go!

It might've been snowing like crazy and a tad on the chilly side, but that didn't stop families from enjoying last weekend's Christmas is For Kids event by the Whitecourt & District Chamber of Commerce. Held at the Whitecourt Legion, families enjoyed free festive crafts, glitter and sparkle tattoos, and a hot cup of cocoa following a horse-drawn wagon ride. Families could also attend a free movie at Vista Theatre and hang out with the Grinch or the Gingerbread Man. Lots of falling snow made for pretty pictures as this group went for a spin around the block, led by two beautiful horses.

she said. Tschigerl said everything comes together on Thursday, December 12, as ATCO volunteers collect the donations at the ambassador locations and drop them off at the United Church. The very next morning, the Christmas Hamper elves start 'shopping' for each family on the list from the donations and wrap everything up. "The gifts are personally picked out by our volunteers," said Tschigerl. The longest-running hamper helper is Phyllis Tomlinson, one of the founders 52 years ago. She retired from the front lines two years ago when the hamper celebrated 50 years of magic. Tschigerl said she hopes Tomlinson can make it in for a visit on wrapping day and enjoy one of the best parts. For those looking to grab some gifts for the hamper, Tschigerl said they often struggle with gifts for kids between ages 9-11. "Those pre-teenage ages are always ones we struggle with. A bigger set of LEGOs is always a good draw for those kids. We always include family games, so age-appropriate games are a good suggestion. We also have a craft or activity for each of the kids." To those who donated, Tschigerl said the words thank you aren't big enough to express the gratitude shared by volunteers. And the same for families who shop together and have made donations a yearly tradition. "It leads into many generations and puts that generosity on our next and future generations. It's huge." She said even businesses not donating physical items play a significant role by donating gift and meal cards. "You would not believe how the businesses in Whitecourt have a hand in what is going on with this program. Your heart melts because you know everything is going out into our community, and it's pretty spectacular." Though each family does things a little differently when they receive their hamper, whether they keep it a secret until Christmas Day or let their kids see it arrive, Tschigerl said there has been some special moments over the years for the delivery drivers who come back every year and help. "That's their way of giving back to the community. They love doing it. We have heard stories where children have seen the boxes come in and the overwhelming joy that the delivery people get to see in that moment."

day, December 5, from 7-9 pm and Saturday, December 7, from 12-3 pm. Tschigerl said one member of the family that knows details about the needs and situation is all who needs to come in. "We are asking for them to bring Alberta Health Care cards for everyone and proof of residency to prove they live in Whitecourt or Woodlands County. They can bring in a power bill or something that shows their physical address." Tschigerl said she hopes families in need take full advantage of the opportunity and allow themselves to feel the love of their community this holiday season. A town-sized hug, if you will. "It's the hardest step anyone can take. That's who we are trying to reach- those who have difficulty feeling like they can come. We want them to know that they are more than welcome. We want them there. There's nothing to keep them from walking through those doors. We have a welcoming environment, and we want to see them. We want to help them in the best way possible."

3 Day Miracle Prayer to the Holy Spirit

Holy Spirit, you who make me see everything and show me the way to reach my ideal. You who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything, and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desires may be, I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen

You must pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking your wish. After the 3rd day, your wish will be granted no matter how difficult it may be. Promise to publish this dialogue as your favor has been granted.

The results are in for this year's provincial Communities in Bloom competition, and community members should be proud

By Serena Lapointe

The judges have officially spoken. In August, Whitecourt was on the big stage, competing in the Communities in Bloom Provincial Competition. Two judges toured the municipality by bus, along with the local Communities in Bloom committee, town staff and town councillors.

The group visited multiple local hot spots, including Festival Park, toured neighbourhoods to see what residents had done to beautify their properties, saw the downtown and business core, shared about projects

Johnson, Mary Joann

November 10, 1958 - February 8, 2024

On November 15, 2024, Mary Joann Johnson of Trochu, AB, formerly of Quesnel and Fort Nelson, BC peacefully passed away at the age of 88 years.

Mary will be lovingly remembered by her children, Karey and Barb, both of Whitecourt, AB and Kathy (Darcy) of Prince George, BC; grandchildren, Lance, Jamie and Randi (Layne); great-grandchildren, Rhys, Brier, Willem, Raina and Alina; brother, Grant; sister, Dawn (Ron); and many more dear relatives and friends.

Mary was predeceased by her husband, Gord Crawford (2002); brother, Cliff; and sister, Pat (Larry).

Thank you to the doctors and staff at the Rimbey and Mayerthorpe Extencicare for the kind care shown to Mary.

In accordance with Mary's wishes, no public ceremony will be held.

In recognition of Mary's deep love for animals, the family requests that you honour her memory with donations to a local animal rescue.

happening in Whitecourt, like FireSmart, and checked out the river spurs on the Athabasca River. The trained judges evaluated Whitecourt for Community Appearance, Environmental Action, Heritage Conservation, Tree Management, Landscape, and Plant and Floral Displays concerning municipal, business, institution, residential and community involvement.

Following a full day of data collection, the judges went to other municipalities in the province and over the next couple of months, all the scores were tabulated and recently provided to municipalities. On Monday, November 25, the Whitecourt Town Council heard how Whitecourt did. Kelly Sadoway, Manager of Recreation, Arts and Culture, was excited to share it.

"I come bearing good news! I'm happy to say that we were given a score of 83.9 percent and an overall ranking of five out of five blooms." Whitecourt has achieved a five out of five ranking through the provincial competition previously. "They gave us praise for a few things. We got special recognition for the River Spur Project and the addition of walking trails and benches down there," explained Sadoway.

She said the judges also pointed out the beauty of downtown Whitecourt, commenting on the colourful flowers. "They really thought it was beautiful," said Sadoway. "They also liked our strong FireSmart program, which is going to get even better, I hear," she said with a smile, alluding to the recently announced fireguard project that will commence this month.

The Communities in Bloom judges also praised the community for its well-maintained park spaces and the diverse outdoor recreational activities available at Festival Park, including the playground, bouncy pillow, volleyball courts, walking trails, slides, splash park, soccer fields and open spaces for a mix of sports.

One thing the judges said they would like to see next time is the Whitecourt Cemetery. "They would like to see what we have going on over there," said Sadoway. She said they also wanted more information on the river spurs. "They had some questions about the log jams and how they were all sitting there and that it was actually a positive thing, and they wanted more information on that and for us to share it." The trees pushed up against the spurs from past high-water events help protect the land from further erosion, acting as a barrier. They also provide habitat for fish and wildlife. The judges felt that signage explaining that could be added.

"The Town of Whitecourt has many natural assets for the residents and visitors to enjoy.

The River Spur Project is one of the most recently completed projects that can be enjoyed. It is important to have signage in this location, addressing the reasons for leaving the tree branches and logs along the banks of the river," read the evaluation form prepared by the visiting judges, Bob and Sherry Cote. They also commented that it was obvious that people cared about their community. "We enjoyed our short visit to your community, and we wish you all the best in your ongoing projects that promote Growing Great Communities Together. It was evident that the community representatives that were on our tour, and those that met us at various locations, are very passionate and proud of their community," they concluded.

"They were also thinking about water conservation incentives for us to get more residents using rain barrels," said Sadoway. The Communities in Bloom committee has given out rain barrels in the past thanks to an opportunity that sprung up about ten years ago. "Someone on the committee had a line on someone who repurposed the barrels. They were for industry use, and they repurposed them to be rain barrels. We got 100 of them. I think we sold them for half the price we paid for them as an initiative to try and get people to use them, and they all went out," explained Sadoway. Similarly, the group recently gave out composters during a composter class at the library to help encourage residents to compost at home.

"We got a newsletter from Communities in Bloom (after the results were shared), and it talked about all the different areas and communities that had been ranked in Alberta, and Whitecourt had the highest percentage. However, they did not declare us the winners, so I'm not too sure what's happening there," said Sadoway. She added that she sent in a letter and was waiting on a response to find out if Whitecourt was the overall provincial champ. "It did look like we did well."

Mayor Tom Pickard chuckled and said, "But we're not competitive. It's about beautification. But, if we're keeping score, we did have the highest score." Councillors, admin and visitors in the audience shared a laugh with a few "We're the champs" thrown in for good measure, with smiles all around. "It's ok to celebrate our wins," said Councillor Tara Baker.

Whitecourt has been a provincial winner in the past, as well as a participant in the national competition. Whether or not Whitecourt is officially crowned this year's provincial winner, residents and businesses alike, and the hardworking town staff, should all be proud that their efforts to beautify the town have been noticed and are appreciated.

This was one of the beautiful flower displays in downtown Whitecourt.

Putting a face on suicide

Every 40 seconds somewhere around the world someone dies by suicide, that's 99 people every 66 minutes. Every day, that's almost 100 people in the United States alone, and over 2160 worldwide. Putting a Face on Suicide (PAFOS) is a suicide awareness project that creates posters and videos to pay tribute to those we have lost to suicide with dignity and respect. PAFOS humanizes the daunting statistics; lovingly replacing numbers with faces.

Pumpjack Players perform holiday channel spoof

How pet dogs are created on a dogless set.

An audience AWWW for the lonely and good-looking axe carrying single guy.

A busy city girl in a small town? Check.

When the bells ring, everyone says AWWW!

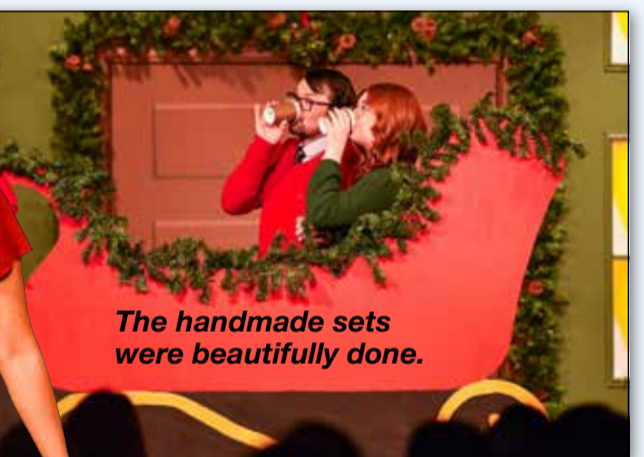

The evening's narrators got the audience involved from the start.

Whitecourt's local acting group, Pumpjack Players, recently wrapped up its fall dinner theatre with a bang. The group performed four times through November, with attendees leaving Central School with sore ribs from laughing so hard. The show, The Holiday Channel Christmas Movie Wonderthon, was a spoof on a popular holiday channel (hint: the company also makes cards), and the types of cringy but much-loved storylines that viewers look forward to watching, with a cup of hot chocolate, of course, every year. The script followed a handful of couples, each with its own storyline as silly as the next. The typical roles were there, including a busy city girl looking for love in a small town, a writer with writer's block, a prince in hiding, a comatose patient being cared for by a stranger and a single hotel owner being pressured to sell by a big, bad company that wants to tear her father's inn down and put up a new development. The audience even had a job. Each time one of the narrators rang jingle bells, the audience was trained to collectively AWWW. The local cast, made up of seasoned veteran and brand-new-to-the-stage actors did a wonderful job bringing their roles to life and being very, very punny. Hats off to the Pumpjack Players! Next on the docket is the children's play, with auditions expected to start early in 2025.

Miss Christmas, is that you?

The handmade sets were beautifully done.

A sad puppy story.

Whether you're a first-time homebuyer, looking to refinance, or seeking investment opportunities, my goal is to make the mortgage process smooth, transparent, and stress-free.

Having completed my education through the Real Estate School of Alberta, I am licensed with both AMBA and RECA. I bring a client-first approach, combining industry knowledge with personalized service. My mission is to guide individuals and families through one of the most significant financial decisions of their lives, ensuring they feel confident every step of the way.

I also collaborate closely with experienced industry professionals, including my mentor Mike LaRue, to continually refine and expand my expertise. Together, we are building a team dedicated to delivering exceptional mortgage services.

At the heart of my work is a passion for helping people secure the home of their dreams while building lasting relationships based on trust and integrity. As I grow in this field, I'm committed to providing an exceptional client experience that is as rewarding as it is reliable.

Falls prevention month a reminder to stay safe all year

Alberta Health Services encourages Albertans to take steps to prevent falls and other injuries. About 180 children ages four and under and 11,000 adults ages 65 and older were hospitalized due to falls in Alberta in 2022. Here are some tips to avoid falls:

For children:

- Use sturdy, wall-mounted gates at the top of all stairs and a wall-mounted or pressure-mounted gate at the bottom.
- Install safety devices on windows, such as window guards or child-proof locks higher than ground level. Safety devices should be installed so they may be opened by an adult or older child without the use of any tools or special knowledge.
- Move furniture away from windows and balcony rails to prevent children from climbing.

- Secure furniture, such as dressers and bookcases, to the wall.
- Use the playground checklist for children to reduce the risk of injury.
- Always have your child wear a certified helmet while skiing, snowboarding, sledging, tobogganing or skating to lower the risk of head injuries.

For adults:

- Move your body. Regular physical activity builds balance, strength, and flexibility. Talk to your healthcare provider before beginning a new physical activity, and discuss strategies for staying active if you have limited mobility.
- Choose footwear that has low heels, fits well and has good grip. Join activities with friends or family to stay safe and connect with others. Take short, slow steps on slippery surfaces.

- Check your vision. Changes to your vision might increase your risk of falling. Alberta Health covers the cost of an annual eye exam for adults ages 65 and older.
- Regularly review your medications with your doctor or pharmacist, and ask questions about side effects, such as feeling dizzy or sleepy.
- Keep floors and pathways clutter-free, and turn on lights on stairs.

If you fall or are seriously injured, get the appropriate care promptly. People with life-threatening emergencies should visit their nearest emergency department or call 911. If your condition is not life-threatening, call Health Link 811 for health advice or information.

November is Falls Prevention Month.

Alberta Health Services is the provincial health authority responsible for planning and delivering health supports and services for more than four million adults and children living in Alberta. Our mission is to provide a patient-focused, quality health system that is accessible and sustainable for all Albertans. Our current focus is on reducing emergency department wait times, improving EMS response times, increasing access to surgeries, and improving patient flow.

SCHOOL NEWS

Grade one students from Pat Hardy Primary School had a fantastic time on the ice during a recent skating session. The event was made even more special by the support and participation of parents and family members, who joined in to create a memorable afternoon for everyone involved.
